even though fifty satin-clothed "pages"

ambition of a lifetime had been realized, for to be the champion of all the shooters has been his drawn of years.
He will rest on his laurels, for he said at his modest little home, at 955 Lekthgow street, last night, that having distanced all competitors, he will not be a

New Year's shooter again. Thave set the pace," he exclaimed, proudly. "Now let others follow me if they can. What disposition will be made of the extraordinary costume, has not been determined."

Newton is the captain of a club which bears his name, and he was the central figure in all the day's proceedings. More than two score of New Year's Associations, paraded through the city streets, and there was bernined princes, and jewel-bedecked kings, galore, and courtiers in silk and costly lace, galore, but the constellation about which all revolved was the $1,800 costumed captain of the Newton Club.

He was a constellation, literally and figuratively, for the silk and plush wonder was in the design of a crescent, and

He was a constellation, literally and figuratively, for the silk and plush wonder was in the design of a crescent, and star, and the rim of the crescent, and the points of the star, were supported by Lords Fauntleroy, some of whom chewed tobacco, and others of whom smoked cigarettes. Still, the effect was one that seemed to impress the crowds who thronged about favorably, and wherever the captain and his satellites moved, they were surrounded by wondering and admiring thousands.

This wonder of the day was brought out into the light of day from the little frame building on Cadwallader street, above Girard avenue where it was made about 9 o'clock yesterday morning. The work on it was done in the greatest secrecy. For three months a quartette of embroiderers his been plying the needle incessantly and in the last three weeks the work has been kept up day and night. Even the workwomen, the captain says, were kept in ignorance of the exact design of the suit until it was carried out into the street yesterday morning.

For an hour previous to the event the neighborhood was in a flurry of excitement. Half a hundred little boys and a few overgrown ones, whose upper lips were the abiding places of certain bunches of bristly hair, had disappeared into the house where the sult was made, and had reappeared in a few bunches of bristly hair, had disappeared into the house where the suit was made, and had reappeared in a few moments completely transformed. Torn stockings shad been hidden from view beneath other stockings of stunning pink. Where before had been bottomless coats were now pink slik Lord Fauntieroy coats and white blouses. Brimless hats gave way to caps of spotless white, and unkempt hainto curiy, glossy wigs. Then all the little Fauntieroys, while the captain was getting ready, hied themselves to a neighboring store, paid ten cents to have their shoes glided and made various outlays for cigarnade various outlays for cigar-"penny ikes" or chewing tobac-

Four men emerged from the doorway carrying, with straining backs, a great load of fluffy slik andiswamsdown. Then the lords danced into the middle of the street, and seized the edges at designated places. And while the populace stood wondering the bundle was unfolded, and there was evolved a monster crescent, forty-seven feet wide and embroidered with countiess roses. Again the men disappeared into the house, and this time they brought out two side capes, equally as wide as the crescent, and similarly decorated. Then came a thirty-six-pointed star, whose branches were united with bands of pink ribbon. Lastly came a four-pointed star, and then the captain. He took up a position behind the smaller star, the crescent and the larger star were tied to him with ribboh, the populace shouted and the captain, almost weighed to the earth with the load, marched proudly down into Girard avenue, a smile of estisfaction on his lips, and the eyes of everybody especially the

The stock market displayed a saging tendency in prices during the greater part of to-day, and the speculative movement was sluggish. Suspense is growing acute in financial circles regarding the proposed bond issue, as the matter had been generally expected to be closed by this time. The same condition applies to almost all other branches of Wall street business, which are rendered unsettled by the profracted delay on a question of such decided interest. The conflicting influences of premiums on gold to arrive and coincident experts of gold from this country, uncertainty regarding the probable course of the money and and coincident experts of gold from this country, uncertainty regarding the probable course of the money and commercial paper markets and the il-quidation in American securities in London, due to the Transvaal imbroglic and other causes, all contribute to the disquist of local dealers and investors. Foreign cables came lower previous to the opening here, and the arbitrage op-erations for London account were for sales.

The total sales of stocks to-day were 150,883 shares. Evening Post's London financial cablegram: Three hundred and ten thousand pounds in American eagles were withdrawn from the Bank of England to-day for a German house, and the bank has raised its selling price of the coins to seventy-six and eight pence, and of bar gold to seventy-seven and eleven pence half-penny. Should further applications be made for eagles, it is believed that the price will be raised still further. There nothing new otherwise in connection with the American bond issue.
